

Wharton Faculty – A Sample of Diverse Research

Below are a few publications of Wharton faculty to give you some sense of the diverse research that faculty conduct. Links for articles are included. Some have to be accessed through your library. If you are interested in an article and cannot access it, please request the article from Anita Henderson (henderson@wharton.upenn.edu).

The research is arranged by department, and most publications are co-authored. Collaborations allow authors to draw on the expertise of other scholars. Wharton faculty names are in bold.

You should also feel free to browse faculty profiles online. You can search departments <https://www.wharton.upenn.edu/departments/> for a list of faculty where you can access individual profile pages. Faculty have a research tab on their pages and/or a link to another site about their research.
